

Red Apple Audio Networks Announces Syndication of The Rush Hour with James Golden (aka Bo Snerdley)

New York, NY – February 5, 2025 – Red Apple Audio Networks has added The Rush Hour with James Golden (aka Bo Snerdley) to its growing roster of top-quality program offerings. The Rush Hour with James Golden (aka Bo Snerdley) airs live weekdays from 4-5pm ET to keep listeners engaged in afternoon drive. Golden delivers updates on the most important news of the day, along with a smattering of music from that day in music history to rejuvenate listeners after a day's work. Listeners are not only well-informed they're also bopping and singing all the way home.

Golden streaked to nationwide fame as Bo Snerdley, producer of The Rush Limbaugh Show. Since then, Golden has solidified his position as a major radio host with phenomenal audience share growth on flagship 77WABC in New York (41% year-over-year) and spectacular weekly TSL of 1 hour and 15 minutes*.

"I am looking forward to connecting every day with listeners in markets all across the US," said Golden. "During The Rush Hour, we take a look at events that occurred during the day, but we also take a break and have a little fun, too."

"James has attracted a loyal audience that continues to grow," stated John Catsimatidis, Owner of Red Apple Media, Red Apple Audio Networks, and 77WABC Radio. "Many of his listeners remember him from the Rush Limbaugh days, but the audience growth he is experiencing is solely on his own talent. His insights on politics, combined with his love for talk radio, has made him a phenomenal success."

Golden began his radio career at an early age and has worked in the control room, in the boardroom, and on the air. Recently, he was recognized with the Best Editorial/Commentary Award from the New York State Broadcasters Association.

In addition to The Rush Hour, Golden hosts a three-hour syndicated Saturday morning program, The James Golden Show, which launched into syndication last June. The show has amassed more than 30 affiliates, including five in the Top 50 DMA's. Both programs originate from the Red Apple Audio Networks flagship station, 77WABC Radio in New York.
