November 6, 2012

CLOSER TO THE EDGE

U.S. equities finished lower in October as worries about corporate earnings in the latter half of the month trumped better-than-expected economic data earlier in the month. The S&P 500 finished down 1.98%, the Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 2.54%, and the technology-heavy Nasdag was down 4.46%, as Information Technology stocks took a particular beating. The month had started promisingly, with stocks rising on improved economic data that included a stronger-than-expected employment report and the ISM manufacturing PMI, which jumped into expansion territory. The S&P 500 reached its highest level during the month, on October 17, when housing starts reached a four-year high-more evidence that U.S. housing continues to recover. However, after this apex, the index moved downward as earnings reports weighed on equity markets. Key companies missed expectations, and more companies continued to guide down fourthquarter earnings. Much of the downward guidance was related to concerns surrounding the U.S. fiscal cliff. Finally, the month ended with the destruction caused by Hurricane Sandy, which has caused billions of dollars of damage and closed U.S. equity markets for two consecutive days-the last time this happened was in 1888.

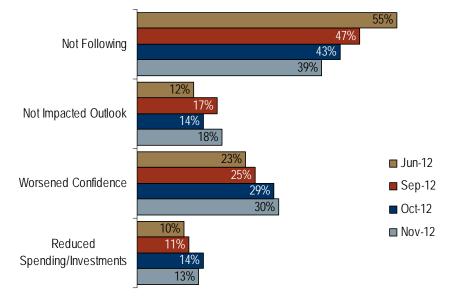

From a sector perspective, only two sectors closed in positive territory—Financials were up 1.81% and Utilities gained 1.38%. The Information Technology sector took the hardest hit during the month and finished down 6.81%. This was primarily a result of increased profit warnings from key technology companies. Telecom Services fell 5.21%.

On an international level, Spain took the spotlight in Europe as investors continued to wait and see whether the country would officially ask for a bailout. It did not, and the country and several of its regions had their credit rating downgraded by S&P and Moody's. In China, while thirdquarter GDP growth came in at the slowest pace since 2009, there was mounting evidence its economy is showing signs of having bottomed.

With October behind us, we are a few steps closer to the end of 2012 and to the fiscal cliff—the across-the-board tax hikes and government spending cuts that go in effect at the beginning of 2013. Unless Congress and the president agree to new legislation that mitigates or prevents the cliff, $750 billion, or 4.6% of U.S. GDP, could be lost in 2013, according to estimates by RBC Global Asset Management. For a long time, businesses have been well aware of the fiscal cliff's consequences. As previously mentioned, concerns about the uncertainty related to the fiscal cliff have been a key message during earnings reports from corporate leaders. Recently, consumers have become more attuned to the fiscal cliff and what it could mean for the economy. Our Chart of the Month looks at data from the latest RBC Consumer Outlook Index, which shows the number of U.S. consumers paying attention to the fiscal cliff continues to rise.

In addition, we have a further update on the fiscal cliff in the November issue of Global Insight monthly, in a special article titled, Handicapping the Fiscal Cliff. In the article, RBC Capital Markets' U.S. economists offer three possible trajectories for the U.S. economy in 2013, given different outcomes from the upcoming fiscal cliff negotiations. #### Distribution of Ratings

For the purpose of ratings distributions, regulatory rules require member firms to assign ratings to one of three rating categories - Buy, Hold/Neutral, or Sell - regardless of a firm's own rating categories. Although RBC Wealth Management's ratings of Top Pick/Outperform, Sector Perform and Underperform most closely correspond to Buy, Hold/Neutral and Sell, respectively, the meanings are not the same because our ratings are determined on a relative basis (as described below).

			Investment Banking Services Provided During Past 12 Months
Rating	Count	%	Count	%
Buy (TP/O)	776	50.25	252	32.47
Hold (SP)	689	44.62	174	25.25
Sell (U)	79	5.12	8	10.13

Definitions of Rating Categories

An analyst's "sector" is the universe of companies for which the analyst provides research coverage. Accordingly, the rating assigned to a particular stock represents the analyst's view of how that stock will perform over the next 12 months relative to the analyst's sector, but does not attempt to provide the analyst's view of how the stock will perform relative to: (i) all companies that may actually exist in the company's sector, or (ii) any broader market index.

Ratings:

Top Pick (TP): Top Pick (TP): Represents analyst's best idea in the sector; expected to provide significant absolute total return over 12 months with a favorable risk-reward ratio, approximately 10% of analyst's recommendations.

Outperform (O): Expected to materially outperform sector average over 12 months.

Sector Perform (SP): Returns expected to be in line with sector average over 12 months.

Underperform (U): Returns expected to be materially below sector average over 12 months.

Risk Qualifiers:

Average Risk (Avg): Volatility and risk expected to be comparable to sector; average revenue and earnings predictability; no significant cash flow/financing concerns over coming 12-24 months; and/or fairly liquid.

Above Average Risk (AA): Volatility and risk expected to be above sector; below average revenue and earnings predictability; may not be suitable for a significant class of individual equity investors; may have negative cash flow; and/or low market cap or float.

Speculative (Spec): Risk consistent with venture capital; low public float; potential balance sheet concerns; and/or risk of being delisted.
