Lights, Camera, Action: Historic Playhouse Reopens in Style

BY ANNALI HAYWARD

Hollywood came to New Canaan for a triumphant celebration of cinema, as the iconic town Playhouse took center stage in a glamorous reopening.

Red carpet adorned Elm Street as this epic saga — full of plot twists — finally came to a fruitful conclusion, three years and $8.5 million later.

Attendees began arriving at 5:00 p.m., Thursday June 27th, posing for photos in front of the 101-year old building, with guests of honor glittering under the beloved marquee lights.

CinemaLab, the innovative and somewhat starry team behind the revamp, are now the proud operators of the premises for the next ten years — and they couldn't contain their excitement.

CEO Luke Parker Bowles was a lively host, while actor and Head of Experience Patrick Wilson (Aquaman, The Phantom of the Opera) thoughtfully reflected on the journey and the Playhouse's future.

"I will tell you, this doesn't happen without the town," said Wilson, recognising the efforts of New Canaan officials in their drive to see the project finished. "There has to be a desire to see beyond just movies."

"This is not just one thing," agreed Parker Bowles. "It's not just a movie theatre, or just a pub, or just a member's club." Indeed a large part of the CinemaLab vision is to offer something a little more convivial and inviting than traditional movie theaters; hence the heavy emphasis on the holistic offering.

Flanking the two, cozy theaters (where tickets are about $12 for adults and $10 for seniors and children) are the Pub, with its restored, 14-foot Victorian bar from the 1880s, and the custom-made, 1930s-style grab-and-go counter, where the team spent Thursday morning perfecting the ideal popcorn recipe to welcome their first customers Friday. Upstairs, the Marquis club — where an annual Bravo membership, which includes unlimited movies for two, starts at $3,600 - hasits own French Art Nouveau mirroredback bar, with detailed inlay and cast

No attention to detail has been spared throughout the heritage property, with original brickwork and exteriors faithfully preserved — something Parker Bowles was "hugely" mindful of throughout.

CFO Andy Childs described the company's mission as seeking to "elevate the whole experience." Speaking before the inaugural screening (of 'If', starring Ryan Reynolds), Childs told guests they seek to "bring back the magic of cinema," and "activate this space to find real economic longevity for the next 100 years of the Playhouse."

And the glamour kept coming — with a special recorded message from 'If' director and major Hollywood star John Krasinski,

"When we set out to do this," reflected Wilson, "this is what we wanted."

who wished town residents congratulations on "having your wonderful cinema back."

With trademark humor, Krasinski added, "there's no other way to experience movies than in a dark room with strangers - it's the way I make movies because it's the way I watch movies. Have a wonderful time and I'll be thinking of you, cant wait to be there soon!"

Town officials were enjoying the festivities too. Director of Public Works Tiger Mann told the Sentinel the overall experience has been rewarding.

"It's absolutely beautiful," Mann said. "I love the way it turned out. I want to see the entire town here."

similarly jubilant.

reasons why people love New Canaan," visitors...which will benefit the entire downtown business district."

As Wilson said, "I hope that even the people that maybe felt like it wasn't a worthwhile investment will see over time the investment back into the community."

Carlson acknowledged the project's hiccups, saying "there will be many lessons learned when we have the time to do a post mortem," but that for now she encourages everyone to visit over the summer.

That's exactly what Parker Bowles was going for. "We want you to have a reason to get off your sofa," he said.

And to the critics? "Get up from behind your computer and actually try it out."

As for the membership, he was equally clear: "it's not exclusionary at all — you get the same great experience." Part of the reason for a members' lounge, he explained, was to provide a later dining option (until 11:00 p.m.), which is not First Selectman Dionna Carlson was available anywhere else in New Canaan.

We can see fancy windows and decks on large cruise ships, but we know that the massive engine rooms below the waterline are what make the ships move. Similarly, the engine room of emotion is what makes people move, not our cognition. Couples often do not argue about the things they think they are arguing about. It's not about taking out the trash or picking up the kids or sex. It's about the emotions underneath the waterline—typically, feeling unappreciated, unsafe, or criticized.

Identifying our true emotion is a gift that we give to ourselves and our partners. We know that we have found this true emotion when our voices lower. We naturally reach toward our partner's quieter, more vulnerable feelings, instead of pulling away in anger. Revealing the true emotion for just a few minutes, or even a few seconds, is often long enough to resolve the tension between us.

"What's going on under the waterline?" became shorthand for Mark and Alia. It signaled their willingness to dive deeper, to explore the hurt or sad feelings "underneath" their argument. At first it was risky. Now it is a habit that shortens their disagreements and increases their intimacy.

Answer: Continuing our summer area, this week's featured spot is the Bartlett Arboretum & Gardens in Stamford.

The Bartlett Arboretum is a natural preserve, featuring 93 acres of open space, gardens, and walking trails.

gardens, champion trees, into native Connecticut habitats, alongside colonial stone walls, and over pristine wetlands. The trails are perfect for children (and leashed dogs) of all ages!

Many of the trails are in wooded areas, making them a great spot to explore on a hot summer day.

The Bartlett considers itself a "living classroom" to experience and enjoy nature. The grounds feature 13 gardens to explore including Kitchen, Butterfly, Native Sun Plants, and Tropical Gardens.

The Bartlett is open 365 days a year from dawn to dusk with no entry

In addition to the outdoor trails, the Bartlett offers summer programming including concerts, book clubs, and other special events like birding and gardening workshops.

Summer concerts will be outside and will feature a wide variety of music genres. Visitors are asked to bring chairs or a blanket, and a picnic dinner. Food trucks will also be on-site if you prefer to purchase food there.

The Maritime Aquarium is located series about good excursions in this along the SoNo waterfront, and gives visitors a window into aquatic and plant life in the waters around our area and beyond. There are several special exhibits and events planned for this

Now open through September The miles of trails wind through 2024, is the "Travel Back in Maritime" exhibit, highlighting modern-day descendants of ancient species that can still be found swimming in Long Island Sound, and underwater giants that went extinct with the dinosaurs.

Visitors can see these fossils come to life in two 4-D movies: "Sea Monsters 4-D: A Prehistoric Adventure," which rewinds 82 million years in the past to some of the most dangerous seas in history, and "Dinosaur Safari

The theater features sensory special effects, such as scents, bubbles, wind, mists, and visitors also wear 3D glasses that enhance the experience. The two movies continuously alternate every 20 minutes, every day.

Several permanent exhibits at the Aquarium focus on Long Island Sound and the aquatic life it contains. 'Pinniped Cove" is a 22 feet deep seal habitat, home to a group of harbor seals. It's the largest display in the Aquarium's history, allowing visitors to observe the seals from three different viewpoints. Seals are fed at 11:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. daily.

A newer area of the Aquarium consists of several separate biomes, whose regions' climates are either created or influenced by the oceans. A diverse group of animals are on exhibit including owls, lizards, meerkats, a skunk, and a porcupine.

If your child would like a more indepth experience, the Aquarium hosts weekly summer camps. Separate sessions are held for ages 6-8, 9-12, and 13-15, each with appropriate curriculums and activities centered around marine life.

The Aquarium also runs tours of the Sound from their 64-foot catamaran, R/V Spirit of the Sound. As of July, the catamaran is currently undergoing restoration, but once these improvements are completed, visitors can book tickets. Check on the website for updates and to view schedules.

Home Winemaking: Perils and Joys

By John Kriz

This is a more personal story - a story of my on-going journey as a home winemaker. To borrow a well-worn phrase, there have been thrills of victory and agonies of defeat (including five gallons of hard cider that sadly became five gallons of vinegar). Though I have received several awards for my wine at local agricultural fairs, I am by no means an expert, or even within shouting distance of becoming one. However, I have learned a thing or two, and this is that story, with some tips for those among you who are interested in trying winemaking yourself.

Note: There are myriad laws on alcohol production, use and sale. Be sure you understand and follow them. And if you choose to drink, always drink responsibly.

Where Wine Comes From

In essence, wine is grape juice that has been fermented. Fermentation, for those who have forgotten your organic chemistry, happens when a yeast. The result: The yeast eats the sugar, and converts it to ethyl alcohol and carbon dioxide. You can also make wine from other sugary liquids, such as juice from honey (called mead - remember Beowulf?), apples (hard cider), pears (perry), various other stone fruits (such as cherries and peaches) and soft fruits (such as elderberries, blueberries and raspberries). I have made wine from apples, blueberries, honey (I'm a beekeeper, too) and elderberries (it's like a Zinfandel, very fruit forward), as well as with chemicals specifically exotic stuff like Melomel (a great crossword puzzle and Scrabble word, it's a mix of honey and soft fruit -- fabulous) and Cyser (honey and apple juice). These latter two are part of my Robin Hood and His Merry Men collection. Winemaking provides opportunity for creativity.

Getting Started

First time out I suggest getting a kit. These generally come with instructions (follow them!), juice, the chemicals you'll need and yeast. Most all of the guesswork has been taken out, and your chances of producing something decent is substantially increased. A kit helps you get a feel for the steps involved in a simple way.

Also remember:

- sugary liquid is mixed with Be sure you have all the ingredients and equipment (more on this later) you'll need before you start.
 - Be sure your ingredients have not spoiled.

• Read your recipe before you start. Seems obvious, but...

Go slowly, be careful. There is no ReDo button.

Some Basic Stuff You'll Need

- Juice. Try the internet. It either comes in a concentrate (add water - works fine) or as 'must' which is raw juice, used as-is. Be very cautious buying juices from a grocer. They often contain preservatives or something else that will adversely affect your 5 gallons of juice you'll need coconut, clove and smoke. By a wine press. And a forgiving

He for home winemaking are ended up with 24 gallons of typically 5-6 gallons. This makes Dawn wine - yuk. Only clean it liftable (5 gallons of water and sanitize your equipment weighs around 42 pounds) and will produce about two cases. Choices include:

- o Specially made plastic buckets (My favorite – so easy to use). Most have spouts for easy racking and bottle filling, tight closures and an aperture for the airlock (see below). Plus cleaning is simple.
- o Glass Carboys. These are big glass bottles that are heavy, breakable, hard to lift and difficult to clean.
- o Wooden Kegs. They look cool, but are expensive, heavy, hard to handle and have short lives.

SIDEBAR: Oak

They work great. trust. If you want to crush your Why oak? It adds flavors to the own grapes, it's a chore. To get wine, such as caramel, vanilla, 100-125 pounds of grapes. Plus using oak sticks, etc. you can be very precise on how much oak vou want. You can also use toasted oak, meaning it's been charred. Also regarding oak, there are three basic choices: 1) American Oak (quercus alba), which is White Oak. Why? White oak does not leak. If you're making a wine barrel, you do not want leaks. Ditto if you're building a ship. 2) French Oak

The Surprising Link Between Water and Your Brain Power

It can be easy to let your fluid intake slide, especially when you're busy. But keeping hydrated isn't just about quenching your thirst-it's about keeping your brain sharp and your body healthy.

By Teresa Alasio MD

Ever wondered why you're feeling foggy-headed, or why your afternoon productivity plummets? The answer might be as simple as a glass of water. Water makes up a whopping 60 to 70 percent of our body weight. Yet, shockingly, up to 75 percent of Americans are chronically dehydrated, and seniors are especially at risk.

Dehydration doesn't just make you thirsty-it affects your brain in profound ways. Even being just 1% dehydrated can could start experiencing shortterm memory loss and trouble with basic math. Prolonged dehydration? That can cause your brain cells to shrink, a condition common among elderly individuals who have been dehydrated for years.

Recognize the Signs

It's crucial to recognize the telltale signs of dehydration to avoid these debilitating effects. Typical symptoms include a dry mouth, dark urine, fatigue, and vegetables. Aim for at least dizziness, a rapid heart rate, 6 to 8 cups of water each day, surprisingly, isn't always the engaging in vigorous exercise. most reliable indicator. Your brain could be crying out for water long before you feel thirsty.

Mental symptoms of dehydration are even more startling. Depression, afternoon fatigue, sleep issues, poor focus, short-term and working memory decline, lack of mental clarity, and even hallucinations can all be linked to inadequate hydration.

The Brain's Dependence on How Much Water?

To prevent dehydration, drink plenty of fluids and eat foods high in water such as fruits and muscle cramps. Thirst, more if you're in a hot climate or

The old adage of eight glasses a day is a good start, but there's more to it.

Water and Electrolytes: A Perfect Pair

Don't forget about electrolytes-key minerals like sodium, potassium, and magnesium that regulate your heartbeat, blood pressure, fluid balance, and muscle contractions. Dehydration can lead to an electrolyte imbalance, so it's vital to consume foods that Since the brain cannot help maintain these levels.

Fruits and veggies are your function. And if you hit 2%, you continuously hydrate. A well- best friends in this fight. - Peaches: 88% water - Brussels sprouts: 86 % water

Three Tips to Boost Your Hydration

1. Simply Increase Your Water Intake: Make a conscious effort to drink more water throughout the day.

2. Add Some Flavor: Enjoy herbal teas and flavored seltzers to keep things interesting.

3. Keep Track: Use a daily log or a wearable device like a Fitbit to make proper hydration a habit.

The Bottom Line

We all lose water daily through sweat, bathroom breaks, and even breathing. It can be easy to let your fluid intake slide, especially when you're busy. But keeping hydrated isn't just about quenching your thirst-it's about keeping your brain sharp and your body healthy. So, grab that glass of water and toast to your brain health. Your mind and body will thank you.

(quercus robur) and 3) Slavonian Oak (quercus robur slavonica) from the Croatia/Hungary/Serbia region (and the oak's name varies by region). Each type is a bit different, and there is terroir in oak just like in wine. There are endless discussions on oak – how much, how long, which type, new vs. old barrels.

- Chemicals. Don't be scared. Your recipe will guide you. Just be sure they have not gone off.
- Yeast. There are dozens upon dozens of yeasts. Your recipe will guide you. Each yeast has characteristics that make it optimal for particular types of wines. Some yeasts tolerate colder or warmer temperatures. Some can generate higher alcohol levels. Some are best for white wines, some for red. If you simply leave your juice out, nature will take its course and so-called wild yeast will establish residence and it will begin to ferment. Is this OK? Some people like wild yeasts as they can generate interesting flavors. But...it's a crap shoot on exactly how the wine will turn out. Could be great, could be dreadful. Yeast affects flavor, so its best to use the appropriate wine yeast. If using dry yeast, be sure to 'proof' the yeast before 'pitching' it (adding it to the must). How to proof yeast? Use a clean coffee mug, and add half a cup of tepid water and a teaspoon of white sugar. Then add the yeast. Mix. When you see it foaming after a few hours, it's ready to 'pitch'. Proofing the yeast gives it a head start and you'll get a better fermentation.

SIDEBAR: Stuck Fermentations

Keep some KIV-1116 or EC-1118 yeast around to try to fix a stuck fermentation. What is this? It's when your wine refuses to ferment, or just stops fermenting before you want it to. Why does this happen? My best answer is it just does. What to do? These yeasts are the 'big guns' of fermentation, and by adding them to a stuck fermentation you can (usually) get it going again.

- Airlocks. Get a few. They have a tendency to break at inconvenient times. Airlocks are used on fermentation vessels and allow the carbon dioxide from the fermenting must to escape, but prevent oxygen from entering. Oxygen causes oxidation, which causes spoilage sort of like leaving leftovers uncovered in the refrigerator. Always have one in place in your fermentation vessel.
- Bottles. Buy new ones, all the same size. Trying to reuse used wine bottles of various shapes and sizes is a recipe for madness. Pick a shape and color you like and stick with it. There are two main bottle types: Plain old wine bottles (750ml size) and champagne bottles (also 750ml). The latter are sturdier and are used for sparkling wines. Also, keep your empty bottles, be sure they're clean (and you'll need to buy a special wine bottle brush) and reuse them. I have had many bottles for over twenty years.

• Hydrometer. This is used to test specific gravity. By comparing the starting specific gravity reading of the must with the reading once fermentation has stopped, you can determine the alcohol level. As fermentation occurs, and the alcohol content rises, the specific gravity changes because different liquids have different weights for a given volume. Sugary water has a different weight (specific gravity) than a liquid whose sugar content has been converted to alcohol. Search the internet and you'll find simple tables that will translate your two readings into the alcohol content. Also, your initial reading will tell you the 'potential alcohol' of your must, or the maximum alcohol level attainable assuming you 'ferment to dryness'. If you want some residual sweetness in your wine, as you monitor your rising alcohol levels with new readings, you can stop the fermentation whenever you want. How to do this? Add potassium metabisulfite (called Campden Tablets in winemaking) to the must.

Closures. There are several choices.

- One is screwtops, which are increasingly common in wine. At home, these are not possible as they require industrial equipment you won't have. Skip it. (You can buy specially threaded bottles and do-it-yourself screwcaps but I have found they work poorly and are expensive.)
- Bottle caps. Don't laugh. If you're using champagne bottles, bottlecaps are easy to use and effective. You will need to buy a bottle capper device. The alternative is a champagne cork (plastic or actual cork) but these are very difficult to insert.
- Corks. There are four basic choices. First is a 'straight' natural cork made from a single piece. Second choice is a 'straight' composite cork, which is comprised of little bits of cork glued together. The risk is the wine touches the glue, and these corks tend to shred when removed. Third choice is a straight plastic cork. These are difficult to insert using home equipment. Fourth is a mushroom cork. These use either composite or plastic corks and have a plastic top. They're common in scotch and bourbon bottles. The good news is they insert easily with no equipment. The bad news is the seal is not tight, so there's a risk of oxygenation. 'Straight' natural cork tends to work best. You'll need a cork inserter. You prepare the corks for insertion by placing them in a vegetable steamer on your stove, and steaming them for ten minutes. This makes the cork pliable and easier to insert.

SIDEBAR: CORK

Cork is tree bark (yup) from a special type of oak (quercus suber) with most of the forests found in Portugal. The cork/bark is peeled off the trees every ten or so years. This does not hurt the trees. These cork oak forests are important environmentally, as they are pretty much left alone except for bark harvests, chemicals are avoided, and the wildlife love them, including some endangered species.

- Neck Capsules. These are those bits of plastic or pliable metal (often aluminum) around the tops of wine bottles. Why are they there? Today, they're really decorative atavisms. But in pre-industrial times they had a purpose. Back then wine bottles were individually hand blown by a glassmaker, and the size and shape of the apertures varied. Plus corks (the kind from bark) were individually hand cut, more or less to the proper size. The upshot is that the cork might not fit tightly in the aperture, and there would be a risk of oxygen infiltration, and thus oxygenation and spoilage. What to do? Take some wax and pour it over the top of the corked bottle. That would help seal the bottle, and it was easily removed. Do we need neck capsules on wine bottles today? They're traditional and look nice. Most of the ones for home winemaking are heat-shrink plastic.
- Labels. By all means label your bottles once they're filled. You can go cheap and write on masking tape, or you can order custom labels. There are many pre-designed labels available which you can customize with the type of wine, date bottled, your name, etc. And you can add custom art if you're so inclined. The best ones are peel and stick, and come off easily so when time comes you can remove the old label easily and reuse the bottle.

The Process, and More Tips

First, follow the recipe. These can be found on the internet, from many home wine equipment suppliers, and in books.

Remember: If you want to crush your own grapes, it takes 100-125 pounds of grapes to generate five gallons of juice. And you'll need a fruit press. These are not cheap and are a hassle to use. So purchased must or concentrate is much easier. If you're making wine from, say, blueberries, it's a different story. For a five or so gallon batch you'll need maybe 8-9 pound of blueberries. I freeze them, and then run them briefly through a food processor and dump the juice and shredded blueberries in a fruit bag, which can be purchased from wine supply stores.

It's essentially a big tea bag. Then the full fruit bag is put in the fermentation vessel with water. I have made wine this way and it works fine.

If you use concentrate and thus need to add water, avoid municipal tap water as it likely has fluoride, chlorine and other stuff you do not want. If you have decent well water, that's OK. If not, consider buying natural spring water from the grocer.

As to racking, this is transferring the wine from one vessel to another. The idea is to leave the heavy gunk that falls to the bottom during fermentation in the first fermentation vessel, and to transfer only clear(er) wine to the new fermentation vessel. You'll likely do this three or four times before bottling to help clear your wine. By using those plastic fermentation vessels, this is easy as all you do is put the full vessel on the kitchen counter with the spigot hanging over the side, place an empty vessel on the floor, and open the spigot. Gravity does the rest. If your fermentation vessel does not have a spigot you'll need to use a siphon. They're a bit of a hassle.

Once your wine is ready for bottling, place the full fermentation vessel on the kitchen counter, put an empty bottle under the spout and slowly fill it. Leave some headspace for the cork. First fill the bottle, then cork it, then add the neck capsule (if you want) and finally add the label.

Be sure to take notes about what you did and when, and especially your hydrometer readings and dates, and racking dates.

Your wine should begin to ferment within 24 hours after you've pitched the yeast. If not, you likely have a stuck fermentation. Most of the sugar-to-alcohol conversion will occur in the first few days of fermentation. You'll see your airlock vigorously bubbling away, and you'll smell it, too. (Smells OK.) Fermenting wine does not like cold (shuts down the fermentation) or heat (cooks it). As a rule of thumb, keep it around 75 degrees. Some wines need a few months to be ready for bottling. Some a year. And once bottled you'll likely want them to mature a bit. Cheers!

For Aquarion Customers in New Canaan

Smarter Watering Begins With You

without wasting such an important, irreplaceable resource while also keeping your lawn and garden looking their best.

Most importantly, it can be as easy as following Aquarion's mandatory irrigation schedule for hose-end sprinklers and automatic irrigation systems. Or go a step further... upgrade to a high-efficiency, irrigation system. Either way, you'll reduce what the EPA has identified as one of America's biggest water wasters – lawn and garden overwatering.

Meanwhile, you'll make more water available for vital needs throughout your community – like for fire protection and drinking. And that's just plain smart.

Questions? Contact Aquarion's Customer Service Center at 1-800-732-9678 or speak to a licensed irrigation professional.

We ALL need a Family Advocate who works in Healthcare

In the realm of healthcare, having a close relative who is a physician, nurse, or healthcare professional is not only a matter of pride but also a valuable asset. For many, this familial connection means more than just prestige; it translates into convenient access to expert advice or swift referrals to specialists in high demand. With the appointment wait times for many specialists measured in weeks and not days, having an inside connection or navigator who can advocate for timely access is a real benefit.

Recognizing the advantages and increased satisfaction that come with having such a supportive figure, some healthcare providers have introduced disease-specific "navigators" to assist clients in navigating the complex landscapes of healthcare and insurance coverages. These navigators effectively step into the role of a family member, offering round-the-clock availability for medical needs without the complications of malpractice, ethics, or contractual obligations inherent in caring for a family member.

One notable program, the Navigator—Alzheimer's at Home in New Canaan (Navigator@ waveny.org), exemplifies this concept by providing tailored support for families dealing with loved ones suffering from Alzheimer's Disease. This initiative addresses various challenges faced by families, including accessing clinical assessments, education on disease progression, coordination of care, and assistance with insurance coverage and benefits. By offering a personalized, concierge-level service free of charge to New Canaan residents, this program aims While many healthcare professionals may accommodate requests from their relatives for prompt care or medical advice outside regular hours, there are ethical and legal implications to consider in such scenarios. State laws and licensing regulations often mandate that medical services provided to family members adhere to the same standards as those provided to non-relatives. This means that any assessment or treatment given to a relative should mirror what would be done for any other patient, with proper documentation and adherence to professional standards.

Buy Local

In an age when we use keystrokes instead of footsteps to acquire what we want, it's easy to undervalue the impact of shopping, eating, and getting services locally. With the rise of largescale businesses and e-commerce, it can seem like small businesses are unable to compete. However, supporting these local establishments is critical for the sustainability and vitality of our communities.

Studies show that for every $100 spent at a local business, $68 stays in the community

One of the most significant ways supporting local businesses benefits the economy is by keeping money within the community. When you purchase goods or services from a local business, the money you spend stays within the community, circulating through the local economy. This creates jobs and other opportunities while helping to support the infrastructure of the area. Studies show that for every $100 spent at a local business, $68 stays in the community.

Small businesses are the backbone of our communities, providing jobs and creating opportunities for entrepreneurs. By staying local, you directly support these business owners, helping them thrive. The success of these entrepreneurs means a healthier economy and better job opportunities for our residents. These entrepreneurs also sponsor local events, fostering connections and building trust.

Supporting local businesses offers unique customer experiences and personalized service. Small business owners are invested in their communities and are passionate about providing excellent service. Local businesses often have unique offerings not found at larger retailers. Whether it's a specialty food store or a boutique shop, these businesses know their market and clients.

Environmentally, shopping locally reduces your carbon footprint by cutting down on shipping and transportation. Small businesses often prioritize sustainability and ethical practices.

By making a commitment to shop local or support small businesses, you cycle money back into your community. If you're like most Americans, you shop at large chain stores where they might have the best deals and a large selection. However, there are many reasons why buying local is better for your community and your wallet.

Local businesses make more local purchases, requiring less transportation and reducing pollution and congestion. This helps reduce traffic, habitat loss, and resource depletion.

Small businesses play a significant role in supporting local community charities and causes. Local businesses benefit from a strong community, so the owners tend to be more engaged members of the community themselves. Small businesses donate 250% more than large businesses to local nonprofits and community causes, creating a positive cycle of To the Editor: giving back.

Local store owners value each customer, and their livelihood depends on your satisfaction. Unlike big chains, local businesses hire people with proficient knowledge of their products or services. Employees take the time to know their clients, making for a pleasant experience. Also, if you have a quandary, rest assured you won't be hashing it out with a robot.

In order for small businesses to stay afloat, they need to stand out from their big-box competition. This fosters innovation as small-business owners create unique products and solutions, catering to specific customer needs.

The American dream is about equality of opportunity. Small-business owners believe in this dream and actively pursue it. By supporting small businesses and shopping small, you support real people who are passionate about their work.

Encourage others to think globally, shop small, and support local businesses to fund a better tomorrow.

43rd Fireworks Spectacular: Thank you!

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Family Fireworks Committee, I would like to thank all who supported the 43rd Annual New Canaan Family Fireworks Celebration at Waveny Park by purchasing an entrance pass and attending this Independence Day celebration.

The fireworks show was spectacular. It was another memorable celebration....an outstanding evening of family fun, wonderful music, great food and a fantastic fireworks display. Your financial support makes this great New Canaan tradition possible; whether you drove in or walked in, thank you for buying an entrance pass.

We offer a big thank you to the New Canaan Family Fireworks volunteer Committee (George Benington, Jordan Cerbone, Scott Cluett, Chris Cody, Sven Englund, Wendy Dixon Fog, Win Goodrich, Sue Holland, John Howe, Suzanne Jonker, Russ Kimes, Tucker Murphy, Andrew Walsh, Maria Weingarten, and Pat Wood) as well as all of the following; the show could not have gone on without their endless energy, hard work and commitment:

> Police Department Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) Fire Department and Fire Marshal Office of Emergency Management (OEM) Town Band and Mind the Gap Band

Parking, Parks, Public Works, Recreation and Information Technology Departments

The Exchange Club of New Canaan Master of Ceremonies Dan Taylor

Our special benefactors The fourteen gourmet food trucks

The volunteers who worked from early morning, to very late at night, to set up and take down all of the necessary infrastructure and equipment.

A special thank you to Walter Stewart's Market for selling entrance passes and to the local print and on-line papers for getting the word out about the event.

As usual, the Police and CERT volunteers did a wonderful job handling the traffic flow; the park was nearly empty about 30 minutes after the fireworks ended.

And I offer special kudos, as always, to our Recreation Staff, led by John Howe, (Zack Philippas, Steve Dayton, Butch Landon, Bea Watkins, and Deborah DiMuzio) and the Parks Department led by Todd Deklyn and Ryan Restivo for their tireless efforts in creating a quintessential Independence Day celebration.

Please send any comments, thoughts and suggestions for next year to me at Town Hall.

Snow/Ice Removal from Sidewalks

It seems the Town has recklessly made the decision not to fulfill its obligation to remove snow and ice from all sidewalks as the ordinance dictates as less than half of the sidewalks were cleared. Tiger Mann acknowledged he did his best within financial and personnel constraints. The Town's insufficient maintenance is indicative of the First Selectman's willingness to change the ordinance to allow Town to shirk its obligation while it installs miles of sidewalks. An ordinance change would cause irreparable reputational damage for the Town.

I question why Town would continue to install more sidewalks while placing Town at risk. On April 2, 2024, the Board of Selectmen voted unanimously to enter into a contract which entails the installation of new concrete sidewalks, granite curbing and a parking pull-off along Old Stamford Road from Park Street to the Bristow Bird Sanctuary with a $217,984.00 total project cost. In addition, if connecting Town parks with a "greenlink system" is the goal, Town should fund sidewalk maintenance, including snow/ice removal.

Town is proposing maintaining liability and snow/ice removal to select streets. This enables special treatment such as residents rejecting traffic study recommended safety measures in front of their home on a sharp unlit curve which has been the location of cars driving off the road and others having an intrusive flashing solar paneled speed sign permanently installed in front of their home. This scenario seems to me to be a divide and conquer tactic since only affected parties will be vocal in their opposition. Also, the liability and financial burden would be pushed on an increasingly smaller subset of homeowners as opposed to

While the First Selectman said my property value would increase with the installation of a public sidewalk abutting my house, I believe my home will become less favorable to homebuyers while residents with direct access to the sidewalk without any liability or high costs will

The suggestion during the first Bylaws & Ordinances Committee meeting that homeowners should rely on their "umbrella policy" for liability coverage for a public sidewalk demonstrates a need for both the Town and homeowner to study the insurance/insurability implications.

Inaction to clear all sidewalks of snow/ice and a lack of clarification of its responsibility by the Town has misled some to unjustly accept blame and responsibility. Residents were wrongfully "shamed" on social media for not having properly cleared the sidewalk. Other residents expressed dissatisfaction through a Letter to the Editor and comments (not here) including an inaccurate "gentle reminder" that it was the homeowner's responsibility, "If not as a courtesy then as a way to protect yourself from a potential lawsuit due to a slip and fall.'

New Canaan is not the "only" town which accepts liability, snow/ ice removal responsibilities. Weston, CT; Burlington, Vermont and New Hampshire do. It should be noted that while I was told to check the Town's government calendar for the second Bylaws & Ordinances meeting, having expressed concern for a lack of transparency on this topic, this meeting notice was provided on Friday, June 28th for a Monday, July 1st meeting during the 4th of July holiday week, furthering my position. (June's Town Council meeting shared the date of the meeting but posted it on the calendar over two weeks later.)

The full Town Council will apparently discuss the ordinance change at its July 17th meeting, the result of confusing successive votes by the Bylaws & Ordinances Committee on July 1st. Additionally, Town Council should have the 2024 POCD draft and sidewalks are a significant topic. The agenda has not yet been posted.

Playhouse Lab LLC

Cinema Lab believes that movie theatres that were once the literal and metaphorical heartbeat of the community should be reimaged as the social and entertainment soul... the backbone of the high street.

A Cinema Lab experience is a reimagined movie theatre with a warm, cozy, neighborhood design where guests, friends and family gather for social, entertainment, community and private events. Yes, experience the fresh comfortable seating in an auditorium with state-of-the-art immersive picture and sound featuring the latest movies, hidden indie gem or nostalgic film, The Met or National Theatre Live, or filmmaker talkback. Or host an event for your family, friends, group or business.

And when you come to The Playhouse, relax in The Pub. Join Bravo for access to The Lounge.

Join Encore for access to unlimited movies. Book a private event.

Enjoy fare from local vendors, breweries, distilleries, restaurants, bakeries, and caterers.

Cinema Lab is different, and we planned it that way. Every day is a day to welcome you to where the heart is.

> Meet a friend. Enjoy a drink. Grab a bite. Watch a movie. Join the magic.

Stories, Songs, & Senses

Stories, Songs, and Senses is a sensory play class for children 12 months – 3 years old and their caregiver. Class will begin with a story and songs. Then it's time to get messy! There will be 3-4 sensory bins filled with various materials and textures as well as 1-2 art activities, all related to a central theme. Play with your child at each of the stations or stick with a favorite – watching as they dig into the mess and learn about the world and themselves.

I, Liz Ballantyne, run Stories, Songs, and Senses here in New Canaan and am a mom to a 6 year old and 3 year old. I hold a Masters in Early Childhood Education and Early Childhood Special Education and have over 17 years of teaching experience. I believe that sensory play is one of the best ways to foster brain development in young children and it is so much fun! At home, it can be hard to provide lots of messy learning experiences which is one reason I began a sensory play class.

THE ANNUAL NEW CANAAN VILLAGE FAIR AND SIDEWALK SALE WILL BE HELD OVER A TWO DAYS IN JULY.

On Friday July 19th New Canaan's local merchants will kick off the fun by placing all of their great bargains on the sidewalk out in front of their stores, this gives the "early bird" shoppers a chance to check out the best deals. This two-day Event is generously sponsored by William Raveis Real Estate – New Canaan

On Saturday July 20th our local merchants will move out to the street and be joined by close to 100 other vendors and organizations from all over Fairfield County on Elm, Main and Forest Streets. A family friendly pedestrian mall is created by closing these streets to vehicles so you can come and shop with ease. Come for the Bargains stay for the Music, Food, and Entertainment. School of Rock and Town Band will be playing at the South/Elm intersection. The New Canaan YMCA will be hosting a Family Entertainment area at the Elm/Main Intersection and you may even get a glimpse of Santa Claus in his summer attire!

Friday July 19th 9:00 am - 4:00 pm New Canaan Stores on the Sidewalk

Saturday July 20th 9:00 am – 4:00 pm on 100 + Vendors on Elm, Main and Forest Streets.

Parking is free all day in legal spots on the streets and in the municipal lots.

presented the New Canaan Community Foundation (NCCF) with a generous donation of $8,000, proceeds from Gridiron's annual show. This year's April 2024 event recognized Tom Stadler for his outstanding example and many years of community service to New Canaan. Stadler selected NCCF as the beneficiary based on the organization's broad reach and support than $2 million this year, including more than of local organizations focused on health, human services, and education.

The Gridiron Club of New Canaan recently over many years. "Tom is a great example of and initiatives that make a positive difference in people. He's thoughtful and people are inspired by his dedication and commitment to serve," commented Lauren Patterson, President & CEO of the Foundation.

$860,000 recently awarded in an annual competitive grant process that invests in local Stadler has been an active volunteer with nonprofits. NCCF's grants are designed to what it means to serve the community. He gets the community. These grantmaking decisions involved, gives 100% effort, and loves helping are guided by the input of more than 100 community volunteers each year and are based on the needs and interests of New Canaan and its surrounding communities.

The Gridiron Club exists solely to celebrate The Foundation expects to grant more community service, "and we do it in a creative way", explains Scott Hobbs, President, "by putting on an original musical each year, showcasing one person's years of service while also enjoying some good-natured fun roasting multiple organizations supported by NCCF support high-quality and impactful programs the Fall Guy". Stadler was "honored and humbled, and I laughed all the way through" the evening's performance, produced and directed by Robert Doran and Eric Thunem. Gridiron Treasurer Tracey Karl noted, "we were thrilled to raise a lot of money for a great organization."

About the New Canaan Community

New Canaan Community Foundation, founded in 1977, is a nonprofit organization that addresses our community's needs by providing leadership on local issues, making impactful grants, and facilitating New Canaan's effective charitable giving. The Foundation's vision is a town that comes together to meet the needs of New Canaan and its neighbors, creating a healthier and more vibrant community. Learn more at www.newcanaancf.org. DONALD HUDSON

Donald (Don) Gylum Hudson, a resident at Harbor Chase in Madison, CT, passed away peacefully on July 2, with family gathered around him in person and spirit.

Don was born in Lebanon (then known as Syria) on October 16, 1927. His father served on the faculty of the American University in Beirut. and his mother (a graduate of the University of Chicago) supported the family, including during their subsequent move back to the United Raised primarily in Evanston (Illinois), Don graduated from Northwestern McCormick School of Engineering and later received his MBA from Northwestern Kellogg School of Management. He served in the U.S. Army Air Corps, first at Fort Sheridan in Colorado and then at Scofield Barracks in Hawaii until the fall of 1947. In 1956, Don met and married his wife, Sue, who preceded him in death in 2022. Don joined Procter & Gamble in Chicago, relocating later to Macon (Georgia) and then Cincinnati (Ohio). The family then spent 57 years in New Canaan (Connecticut) as Don embarked on a longer engagement as a management consultant. He was a partner with Booz Allen and Hamilton, and finished his career as a partner at Towers Perrin.

After retiring, Don pursued his passion for helping business students launch their careers. He worked in career counseling at the NYU Stern School of Business and then the Yale School of Management. During this time, he co-authored "Finding Your Way with an MBA", a career planning guide for MBA students, with Susan Cohn.

Don participated in a rich array of community service roles in New Canaan. As a member of St. Mark's for over 50 years, Don served on the vestry and was active in many of the church's outreach programs. He also was a member of the vestry at Trinity Church, Wall Street, from 1984 to 1990. Don volunteered as his sons' Little League coach and served on the Board of Education for New Canaan Public Schools. One of his greatest passions was supporting the work study program at New Canaan High School.

Don enjoyed playing tennis and golf, participating in a book club, and was engaged in activities with the Senior Men's Club in New Canaan. He was an avid ham radio operator and member of the Greater Norwalk Amateur Radio Club. Being a grandpa was Don's greatest joy later in life. He routinely entertained his grandchildren with puns and other gags, and always took an active interest in the personal goals and aspirations of each of those grandchildren: Miriam, Annika, Wyatt, Kevin, Lilian and Olivia. In addition to his grandchildren, Don is survived by his son, Scott (and his wife Susan), his son, Stewart (and his wife Jackie), and his daughter, Sherrill (and her husband Paul).

Contributions can be made in Don's name to: Greater Norwalk Amateur Radio Club, 304 Main Avenue, #115, Norwalk, CT 06851.

A private family service will be held at the St. Mark's Columbarium later this year. For online condolences, please visit

JOSEPH PAGLIARO

Joseph John Pagliaro Jr. (Joe), age 81 of Shallotte, NC formerly from Norwalk, CT went on his journey to Heaven, surrounded by his loving family on Wednesday, June 26.

Joe was an avid golfer most of his life and enjoyed his Tuesday

Foursome. He loved gardening and was particularly proud of his amazing hot peppers, which he never ate. He was a great storyteller and was happy to tell a tale to anyone who would sit and listen for a bit, or maybe longer if given the chance. His infectious smile and robust laugh were enjoyed by all who knew him and his birthday parties were always an epic affair with everyone invited. In his younger years he was an avid fisherman and hunter.

Joe was born in Newport News, VA and attended Notre Dame HS in West Haven, CT and Riverside Military Academy in Gainesville, GA . He graduated from McAllister School of Embalming & Funeral Services, NY, NY and began his career with his father-in-law at Shay-Pagliaro Funeral Home in Ansonia, CT. Later, he partnered with Thomas A. Cicalese as owners of Franklin Hoyt Funeral Home in New Canaan, CT; and Raymond Funeral Home in Norwalk, CT. He was a member of the National Funeral Directors Association and the Connecticut Funeral Directors Association. He was a 3rd degree member of the Knights of Columbus and a member of The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Joseph is predeceased by his parents Dr. Joseph J. Pagliaro and Anna O'Brien Pagliaro. He is survived by his wife of 61 years Ellen Shay Pagliaro, his children James J. Pagliaro (Jennifer Delaney Pagliaro), Helene A. Pagliaro, and Petrea L. Pagliaro-Randazzo (Gerald E. Dennison), his beloved grandchildren Daniel J. Pagliaro (Chelsea Guerra Pagliaro), Julia L. Randazzo, Michael P. Pagliaro, Kristen A. Pagliaro, and Caroline N. Pagliaro. He is also survived by his sister Joanna Pagliaro Peters (Frederick Peters) and numerous nieces and nephews, as well as two of his many close friends who are family Mary L. JOSEPH GARIBALDI

Joseph G. Garibaldi, Jr., affectionately known as Joe, passed away on June 22, at the age of 89 in Norwalk, CT. Born on July 23, 1934, in Norwalk Hospital, he was the son of the late Joseph Garibaldi, Sr. and Ethel (Demko) Garibaldi.

Joe was raised in New Canaan and attended New Canaan Public Schools until 1954 when he learned the plumbing and pipe fitting trade. He dedicated over 40 years to his career as a plumber in the same town. Joe's passions extended far beyond his professional life; he was an avid hobbyist with a profound love for conservation and the outdoors. These interests led him to a life rich with adventure, friendship, and storytelling, beautifully captured through his still and moving photography. His strong commitment to community was evident in his membership with the Flying 20 Club, the South Norwalk Boat Club, and Harmony Lodge No

Joe was predeceased by his beloved wife of sixty years Theresa (Iaizzi) Garibaldi who died on June

Joe's legacy is cherished and survived by his two daughters, Joellen (Tom) and Michele; grandchildren Joshua, Alison (Jay), Joseph, Jonathan; and greatgrandchildren Henry, Vivienne, and

A private memorial service is being planned to honor Joe's life and legacy.

LOUISE SEVERANCE

Louise Morey Severance died peacefully surrounded by family love on May 16 in Stamford, CT at the age of 94.

Louise is survived by her children Lynne Roe of Upper Saddle River, NJ, Laurie Johnson of Wilmette, IL, David Severance of Stamford, CT and Thomas Severance of New Canaan, CT, and 13 grandchildren. She is preceded in death by her husband Richard (Dick) Severance of West Dover, VT, and brother Robert Morey of Tiburon, Louise was born on September 7,1929 in Pittsburgh, PA to Robert Morey and Elizabeth Brahm. She graduated from Syracuse University in 1950 and married Dick Severance, her college sweetheart, in 1952. After graduation, she attended Radcliffe College for graduate courses while working in the Harvard library. The couple then moved to San Diego, CA while Dick was in the Navy, and then to Chappaqua, NY where together they raised four children.

In Chappaqua, Louise was a successful businesswoman and community leader. As a realtor with exceptional people skills, she helped countless families sell a house or buy their dream home. She also served as a leader in multiple organizations including the school board in the Chappaqua School District, League of Women voters, Junior League and PTO. Additionally, she held several elected positions in Chappaqua and West Dover, VT, throughout her life. Her children remember her as a supportive mother who encouraged them as they pursued their goals.

Louise was known as a woman of great strength, grace, and love. She was an active member of the First Congregational Churches of Chappaqua and West Dover, where she also started and ran several programs to support youth. Her Food 4 Kids program in West Dover continues today and has ensured hundreds of children in need received a nutritious meal daily. She enjoyed the art of conversation, and all who came into her sphere of influence benefited from her warm personality, welcome all approach, down-to-earth wisdom.

She was a wonderful wife, mother and grandmother.

A graveside interment ceremony service was held June 30 at the First Congregational Church of Chappaqua, NY.

Memorial donations can be sent to Food 4 Kids, West Dover Church, P.O. Box 710, West Dover Vermont

Mid Year Market Report for 8 Towns (Darien, Fairfield, New Canaan, Norwalk, Stamford, Weston, Westport, and Wilton)

By John Engel

We looked at the stats for the first 6 months, comparing towns of similar size and wealth head to head in order to add some context. When we quote a number, it is a comparison with this time last year. These figures include houses, condos and co-ops. Most striking is Darien's lack of inventory, Norwalk's median percentage of list price of 107.7%, and Westport's median price of $2.175 million, much higher than Darien and New Canaan. We consider around 3 months of inventory to be normal in this environment so New Canaan's 4 months and Norwalk's 1.8 months stand out. The graph of closed sales is seasonal, a sine wave peaking in June, but Stamford surged in December and Wilton in January, so unpredictable. Except for the Darien vs. New Canaan comparison, it seems the lower priced towns have fewer months of inventory, and are commanding a higher percentage vs. list

DARIEN VS. NEW CANAAN (ESTIMATED POPULATION 22.020 VS. 20.862)

Darien has 41 homes for sale, down 24%, and New Canaan has 90, down 11%

Darien median price is $1,983,000, down 4%, and New Canaan is $1,997,150, down 2.6%

Darien's percentage of list price is 101.6%, down 3.2%, and New Canaan is 102.9%, up 2%

Darien has 2.3 month's supply of inventory, down 8%, and New Canaan has 4 months, no change.

Darien closed 22 homes in June, down 43.6% while New Canaan closed 41, up 17.1%

NORWALK VS. STAMFORD (ESTIMATED POPULATION 92,980 VS. 136,480)

Norwalk has 121 houses for sale, down 17%, where Stamford has 233, up 1%

Norwalk median price is $660,000, up 13%, where Stamford is $738,000, up 19%

Norwalk's percent of list price is 107.7%, up .4%, where Stamford is 102.9%, up .7%

Norwalk has 1.8 months of inventory, no change, where Stamford has 2.5 months, up 13.6%

Norwalk closed 85 homes in June, down 24.8%, while Stamford closed 95, down 22.1%

WESTPORT VS FAIRFIELD (ESTIMATED POPULATION 27,470 VS. 63,433)

Westport has 100 houses for sale, down 22.5%, while Fairfield has 148, down 15.4%

Westport's median price is $2,175,000, up 3.9%, while Fairfield is $900,000, up 5.3%

Westport's percentage of list price is 100%, down .7% while Fairfield is 102.4%. up .2%

Westport has 3.5 months of inventory, down 16.7% while Fairfield has 2.7%, down 6.9%

Westport closed 37 in June, down 28.8% while Fairfield held even with 82, down only 1.2%

WILTON VS. WESTON (ESTIMATED POPULATION 18,400 VS. 10,344)

Wilton has 56 houses for sale, up 21.7%, while Weston has 46, up 7%

Wilton's median price is $1,195,000, up 1.5%, while Weston is $1,350,000, up 24.9%

Wilton's percent of list price is 104.8%, up .2% while Weston is $104.5%, up 3%

Wilton has 2.6 months of inventory, up 13% while Weston has 3.9 months, up 25.8%

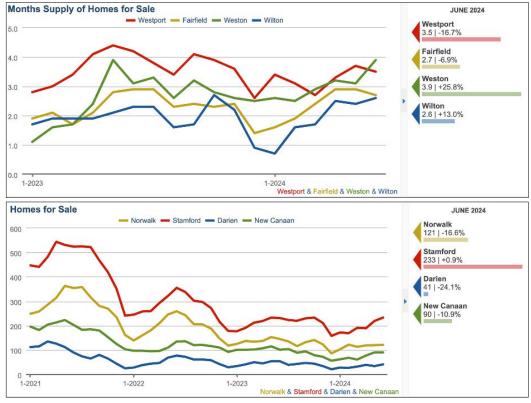

Wilton closed 33 homes in June, down 13.2% while Weston closed 23 homes, up 27.8%

The NAR Settlement has yet to be approved by a judge, and deadlines are approaching after which the multiple listing services will no longer publish an offer of buyer-agent compensation. What does this mean for the industry? Will uncertainty have a negative effect on the market? Agents I've asked in both New York and Connecticut say it's not expected to be a factor. But there seems to be concern that there will be a shift to direct deals in which more buyers will seek out the listing agent directly. The concensus seems to be that buyers and agents will look for the offer on the listing agent's website, and that major real estate portals like Zillow, Realtor.com and Homes.com will seek to fill the void. Thinking about the question of direct deals with the listing agent, I decided to investigate, using the 43 sales in New Canaan over the last 30 days to see how many of the deals were done within the same office. The answer is 14. 29 deals involved two different agencies. And, of the 43 transactions only 4 were direct deals involving only one agent. In the past month four agencies had more than a dozen transactions. Four more agencies had more than one transaction but less than a dozen, and five agencies had one transaction each. My conclusion using this small sample is that the market is well distributed among the dozen or so agencies taking part, with the largest agency achieving a 24% market share.

The Fed made no change at the June meeting and penciled in only one cut for the remainder of the year saying the current inflation rate of 3.3% is well above the 2% target. That's hardly news. But what struck me was that the Fed revised downward the employment and jobs figures of the previous few months and it signaled a softening of the economy. 30-year rates are around 7% and I am told by our lenders that jumbo mortgages are even less.

NOTES FROM THE MONDAY MEETING:

We talked, as we always do, about listings that are lingering, not selling right away. Are our sellers concerned? Are we asking for price cuts? We are now firmly in the slower summer season and sales are supposed to slow. We asked, "Does anybody expect the upcoming presidential election to affect real estate sales in our area?" The consensus in Connecticut agents is "no effect" from either the election (or interest rate movement). We expect the low-inventory environment to persist and apparently so do our sellers. In contrast, NYC agents on the call think paying $8 per bag. Inflation is real.

the election has had a negative impact, citing a slow Spring market.

John Engel is a broker on the Engel Team at Douglas Elliman in New Canaan, and he is thinking about summer in New Canaan. On the one hand it's hard to get things done when people are away. On the other hand, it's kind of nice when you are the one getting away. Summer jobs! 8th grader Natalie tells me that C-level caddies make $60 per bag now . THE GODS OF ANCIENT GREECE

Ancient Greeks used to worship a host of gods, lesser deities, and heroes. The ancient Greek gods resembled humans and had the same needs, desires, and failings of mankind - but they were immortal.

According to ancient Greek myths, the gods lived at the top of Mt. Olympus, the highest mountain in Greece. They meddled in the lives of humans, bringing both good and ill fortune. People tried to appease the gods by offering up sacrifices, and holding religious festivals and athletic contests in their honor. Animal sacrifices took place at an altar in the god's temple. Worshipers burned the choice parts of the animal so that the scent of roasting meat would rise to the gods and please them.

Astrology for Next Week

CANCER

22 June-23 July Identify your number one priority and focus on it to the exclusion of all else. There may be 1,001 interesting things going on but with disruptive Uranus so strong if you let your attention wander you'll find it hard to catch up. Shut off your senses from outside influences.

24 July-23 Aug You like to be in control but you're smart enough to realise that a lighter touch may be needed, especially when dealing with people who don't take kindly to being told what to do. This week, especially, you must be subtle. Cracking the whip will get you nowhere.

24 Aug-23 Sept With changes planet Uranus so prominent you can expect some kind of disruption over the next few days but it will be the sort that results in good things. New theories and ideas will also interest you. Study them carefully - they could change your life.

24 Sept-23 Oct You may find it tricky to make decisions but once you've chosen a course of action no force on earth can stop you from taking it. Positive aspects to Uranus mean the time to act is now, while your rivals are off guard. The quicker you move, the richer you could be.

SCORPIO

24 Oct-22 Nov You have too much of one thing and not enough of another and because your life is so unbalanced there's a danger you'll tip over either this way or that. The planets will help you to take remedial action – if you don't do it by choice, it will be done for you.

SAGITTARIUS

23 Nov-21 Dec Your professional and social standing will receive a boost and you could soon find yourself moving up on the work front or breaking into circles closed to you in the past. Just remember that work isn't everything. People must come first, not power and prestige.

CAPRICORN

22 Dec-20 Jan Some sort of ending is imminent but it doesn't have to be negative. In fact, with the Sun and Mars positively linked to changes planet Uranus there's every chance this particular ending will also mark a new beginning. So stop worrying and start looking for the silver lining.

AOUARIUS

21 Jan-19 Feb Aim for your highest ideal and don't let anyone tell you to be more materialistic or ambitious. The world is full of people fighting to get ahead but you're too intelligent to get caught up in the rat race. If you're happy with what you're doing nothing else matters.

PISCES

20 Feb-20 March Travel and social plans are likely to be disrupted but don't get cross as it could work in your favour. Try not to switch off your mind if you're stuck in traffic: keep your eyes and ears open and something will catch your attention and send you off in a new direction – eventually.

21 March-20 April You don't have to understand why someone's being obstructive, you just have to do something about it. With Uranus energised by your ruler Mars and the Sun you won't hesitate to apply pressure of your own and there can only be one winner in this battle of wills - you.

TAURUS

21 April-21 May You can't run away from your troubles, nor should you want to as the planets will make it easy for you to deal with them once and for all. If you make radical changes of your own volition now you won't be forced into changes you may not enjoy. Be bold.

GEMINI 22 May-21 June You may not be able to do what you want to do now but in a few days you'll look back and thank your lucky stars your options were limited Those who were allowed to follow their desires will look at you in envy for having the good sense to stay clear.

COLUMN | WILDLY SUCCESSFUL: THE ASIAN LION

By Jim Knox

If you were to ask most kids and adults the difference between tigers and lions, they would invariably respond that tigers are orange with black stripes and lions are tan or golden brown in color. They would then inform you that tigers live in Asia and lions live in Africa. Aside from some anomalies in coat color, they would be correct. It is also true that all the world's tigers live in Asia. Lions, however, might surprise you. Although most of the world's lions live in the eastern and southern regions of Africa, these great cats are more widespread than you might suspect, and they hide their secrets well.

The Asiatic or Asian Lion (Panthera leo persica) is simultaneously a beast of legend and mystery. At a casual glance, this big cat is one and the same with its African cousins, yet a studious eye begins to tease out the subtle distinctions among these great cats. Unlike its betterknown cousin, the Asian Lion typically sports a fine peppering of black or buff-gray spots in its coat. Aside from certain skull differences, males possess shorter, more sparse manes, in length, leaving their ears visible. All Asian Lions also possess a much larger tail tuft, a skin fold along their abdomen and typically attain smaller sizes than their African counterparts with males rarely exceeding 9.5 feet in length and 380 pounds in weight.

Inhabiting the fertile crescent and hunting the Tigris and Euphrates River Valleys for millennia, the Asian Lion has witnessed the birth of civilization, served as a competitor, lethal adversary, and timeless source of inspiration to humanity from our earliest days. Ranging into Europe likeness adorning shields, not found in many places."

In recent years they have even extended their range beyond Gir National Park. The most recent survey in 2020 revealed lions had established six satellite populations in Gujarat and the population had reached a modern era high of 674 animals!
